EDITORIAL

Creativity gives us joy. 99% of man create something and get joy. Joy comes out of realisation, kind of peace. Therefore creative virtue is the best of all. On the other hand this century has seen terrible and tremendous changes. The changes we have seen in our times, in destruction as well as in creation. Change is the sign of life and growth.

Bikali college is a creative institution of higher education. Bikali Mouza unnayan samity an N.G.O. which is the first force to establish this college. It is true that still now this samity is serving as a gurdian of the Bikali college. Though originally the college was started as an Arts college, a commerce section too was opened in 2005 keeping in view the growing need for commerce education.

Bikali- a vast locality covering fifty two villeges. It is inhabited by various ethnic groups belonging to the scheduled tribes. But this vast area is not devoleped educationally at present also. Bikali college is a pioneer institution for higher education and is always trying to reach reality.

Now the college stands in young step. Already the college has completed twenty four years and running twenty five years. The college authority, some patrons of learning, social workers of this area take initiative to celebrates the silver jubilee in colourful way the forthcoming year 2007 in April 14 and 15. For the past 25 years the college has been striving hard to justify its existence. Defenitely twenty five years a great success have forwarded us, to build firm hopes and future development of Bikali college. Best wishes HAPPY NEW YEAR 2007 to all

Long live Bikali college.

The Role of Bikali College in Disaster Risk Management Programme

From - Mr. Prasanta Pathak
Lecturer, Deptt of English
Secretary, Disaster Risk Management
cell, Bilkali College, Dhupdhara

From a few years past Government of India has been prompting the awareness of the people regarding the hideous sequel of disaster, may be Natural or Man made. Though, this consciousness has been palpitating spontaneously in everyone's heart, but there has been hardly any national level invigoration - that is methodical, systematic and recorded. Now, the Govt of India takes some drastic steps to prevent natural or man made disaster and its affect as for as possible under human limitation. Under the tenth five years plan, the Govt of India has been accepting a disaster risk management programme in the national level. They have sorted out 169 multi hazard prone disctricts in 17 states, and the entire North East is considered as the highest sensitive zone in the national earth-quake map.

Thus, keeping relevance with this programme. Bikali College, Dhupdhara participated in an orientation programme held in the Goalpara College on 12th Nov, 2006. This programme was organized by the Disaster Risk Management Cell of Goalpara College in collaboration with Deputy Commissioner and the Election officer of Goalpara distric. To this programme Prof. Bhupati Das, Prof. Ramesh ch. Das, Prof. Pankaj Rabha and Prof. Prasanta Pathak represented for Bikali College Disaster Risk Management cell. In this programme several plans, principles and strategies were discussed about pre-disaster, during disaster and post - disaster.

Career Counselling and Guidance Centre

From -Mrs Monalisha Roychoudhury
HOD Deptt. of English

The counselling cell of the college has been in existence since 2001. Several counselling sessions are being held from time to time to guide the students in various aspects . A part from career guidance the centre has also tried to focus on the mental held of the students. A healthy life is not possible without a healthy mind. The teachers of different departments have immensely contributted towards the mental health of the students. They have tried to imbibe positive attitude and outlook towards life. This aspect has been highlighted and stressed upon specially after a seminar organized last year where Mrs. Nimi Borgohain, Clinical psychologist, GNRC Guwahati who enlightend all the participants on the importance of counselling in the life of the students.

The centre plans to hold a few counselling sessions before the Board Final examination in the classroom to distress the students from the examination tension.
